Read, Write, ROAR! is a new television and online show featuring fun and engaging lessons from real Michigan teachers. Watching an episode with your child reinforces the skills your child is learning in school, and each episode comes with a printable activity to extend learning.

The program is aligned to Michigan teaching standards and uses research-based teaching practices shown to help kids become better readers.

Read, Write, ROAR! helps kids in grades K-3 practice reading and writing

Watch it on broadcast television from your local PBS station, or find episodes on-demand at MichiganLearning.org.

We join PBS in the goal to make sure every child in our community learns to read. Equal opportunity starts with reading.

Storytime Stick Puppets

Puppets are a fun way to tell stories. Make puppets of Molly and her family and friends, and use them to retell a story you watched. Or you can take Molly on a new adventure by making up your own story!

Materials
- Printouts of characters and props
- Scissors
- Craft sticks or pencils
- Tape

Make Your Puppets and Props
1. Print the following pages on card stock or glue them to heavy paper. Use scissors to cut out the characters and props.
2. Place the puppet cutouts face down on a table.
3. Tape a craft stick (or pencil) to the back of each one. Position it so that half of the stick is below the bottom edge of the paper.
4. Now your puppets are ready.

Put Your Puppets into Action
There are lots of ways to play with your puppets! You can make your puppets act out a story or sing and dance. You can also learn a new fact about something you are interested in and have one puppet explain it to another.

Think about what you want your puppets to do. Pick the characters and props that will help you tell your story. Then, put on a puppet show! It can be a show you make by yourself or a show you create with someone else. You can put on the show for your family or friends. Or you can record it and watch it yourself.

Make More Props
You can design your own props, too! Draw pictures of other objects that you want to have in the stories you tell with your puppets. Cut the objects out, tape them onto craft sticks, and add them to your prop collection.

You can also make a simple puppet theater out of an empty cereal box. Find directions here: https://www.pbs.org/parents/crafts-and-experiments/mini-pencil-puppet-theater
