

ACTIVITY GUIDE

Episode 204: Day and Night and Fun with -sh-, -th-, and -ch-

Scan below to watch lesson

Read It

Read the following poem out loud with someone you live with. Underline the words with the sc and sk blends.

Look up at the sky,
Do you see the clouds skip?
Sketch the night sky,
Do the stars seem to flip?
I have my book in hand to sketch all that I see,
Scoop up your markers or crayons and try to join me!

By Shernita Rodgers

Read It

Some words have two consonants that blend together at the beginning of words but still produce their own sounds. You will find this in the s blends sc and sk.

The s and c blend together to say /sc/.

The s and k blend together to say /sk/.

Sound out the words below. Then blend the sc and sk sounds together.

s c a n scan

s k i p skip

Write It

Think about the story that you have been writing. What might be a good lead sentence to hook your readers? Remember to include the four w's.

Who _____ Where _____ What _____

When _____
